CERTIFICATIONS THAT INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

The products in our collection carry a variety of environmental and quality certifications. Here's what they mean:

ecoecho®

To qualify as ecoecho®, a significant part of the product must live up to at least two of these environmental standards: resource efficiency, renewability, compostability or responsible sourcing.

The OK Compost label, from the certification body TÜV Austria, indicates that the product is suitable for industrial composting and meets the stringent requirements of the European standard EN 13432.

The Forest Stewardship Council® (FSC) certification ensures the product is made of wood from forests managed in an environmentally appropriate, socially beneficial and economically viable manner.

The Nordic Swan Ecolabel identifies the best products on the market from an environmental point of view. For instance, it confirms our stearin candles consist of 90% renewable materials and minimise soot emissions.

The RAL Quality Mark is awarded by the European Quality Association for Candles. It guarantees the candle burns cleanly, contains no hazardous materials, retains its shape and is safe and reliable.

ILLUMINATE NATURE'S BEAUTY

The majestic harmony of a giraffe's pattern. Zebra stripes that radiate subtle energy. Branches gently swaying in the crisp winter's air. Many of the new candle holder designs for this Autumn/Winter collection are inspired by the infinite magic of the ecosphere. That way, they let you create rewarding guest experiences coloured by a sense of cosiness and connection to nature.

DUNI LEDS AND HOLDERS ARE GROWING IN POPULARITY ACROSS THE HORECA SECTOR. WHY?

"A few reasons particularly stand out: Creative freedom, Strong performance. Ease-of-use. Sustainable materials. And of course, cost-efficiency. For instance, compared to standard tealights, our Mini LED Lamp offers exceptional value when it comes to burn time. And there's no leftover waste either."

I'M DREAMIN' OF A green CHRISTMAS

As hotels, restaurants and caterers gear up for the busy festive period, sustainable approaches can often go out the window. That's unfortunate. With this in mind, we've gathered some tips to help you serve up eco-conscious festivities.

1 FESTIVE DECORATIONS REIMAGINE YOUR TREE

Christmas decorations, and trees in particular, are essential when it comes to creating holiday spirit. But from an environmental perspective, they can pose a challenge. Several companies in the HORECA industry are finding ingenious ways to meet this – and in doing so, deliver great guest experiences.

For instance, in 2015, Hong Kong-based hospitality group Langham hotels introduced a pioneering initiative: each Langham hotel around the world has to create a sustainable Christmas tree using materials that are neither new or store-bought. The results are as imaginative as they are striking. One team built a three-metre tall tree using hundreds of recycled bamboo cuts and nails!

2 TABLE SETTINGS (D)ECO-CHIC

Festive napkins help to set the mood and create a vibrant atmosphere for customers. During the busy Christmas period, with time running at a premium, HORECA managers often rely on single-use napkins and tableware to optimise efficiency and convenience. When it comes to minimising environmental impact, FSC®-certified and, ideally, compostable napkins are a must.

And, at a time of year when decorating tables with perishable fresh flowers can be costly – from an economic and environmental perspective – why not consider other eco-focused additions to the table? For instance, wheat, apples and seasonal vegetables make for striking displays. They work even better when they match the designs on napkins and table covers.

3 LIGHTING LEDING THE WAY

There is no denying it – lights are quintessentially festive. They can make any setting feel warm and cosy in a heartbeat. But for the eco-minded there is a downside: energy consumption. According to UK research, a display of a hundred five-watt bulbs, switched on for six hours a day, over Christmas, consumes 207 kWh.

The type of light you use makes a big difference. LED fairy lights will save you approximately 90% compared to standard incandescent fairy lights, and remain the most affordable and sustainable option. Aside from choosing LEDs, there are also a few other smart ways to help minimise energy consumption. For instance, by using a timer or opting for solid lights (incandescent lights use more electricity).

4 FOODS & BEVERAGES FESTIVE FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Traditionally, Christmas meals have been a meat-centric affair. But with the rise in popularity of plant-based diets and flexitarian eating philosophies, things are changing. Though it might be risky to remove turkey, mince pies and meatballs from the menu altogether, many of your customers may well appreciate a fresh, greener take on the classic Christmas menu.

Currently, there is an increase in chefs experimenting with primarily plant-based dishes in which meat plays second fiddle. Instead of basing a meal around meat or fish, the lead is played by vegetables and legumes. Proteins from the animal kingdom are simply used to flavour and enhance the dish.

Sourcing is another key consideration, particularly as many customers today are asking about this. Aim to buy your supplies from local businesses and farmers' markets. Many regions have organisations and associations that aim to promote local suppliers, and will be able to assist you with lists and advice.

Once you've identified which suppliers are right for you, speak with them about what is in season, as buying seasonal produce helps to reduce environmental impact. Furthermore, watch your waste and consider teaming up with a local charity to donate leftovers to those in need. After all, Christmas is a time for giving.

5 EMPLOYEE EDUCATION STAND SHOULDER TO SHOULDER

To complete the 'Green Christmas' experience for your guests, you need to get all your staff onboard with your vision. After all, they are on the front-line, responsible for shaping the whole dining experience. Inspire them with your ideas and they will bring them to life to deliver a merry, mindful Xmas for one and all!
